

Clix Score v1

Section 1

Start fast and strong, all at once. Use the entire keyboard, but don't go so fast that it becomes uncontrollable! Try to type complete sentences about your day or week: What did you have for breakfast this morning? What was your biggest challenge this week? What are you planning to do when you get home tonight?

Section 2

Keep typing the last sentence over and over, gradually slowing down. Stop using the spacebar. Gradually remove words until only one remains.

Section 3

Type that single word over and over in a very slow loop. Every once in a while, get stuck on the same letter for multiple presses. Occasionally insert an animal sound (meow, woof, moo, etc.).

Pause

Section 4

Start typing a numbered to-do list, beginning with the number key and then spelling out the actual task. Go slowly and methodically at first, contemplating your priorities. Once you reach the end of the list, start over at 1. Gradually increase your speed while maintaining control. If you make a mistake, start over at 1 immediately.

Section 5

Start getting stuck on the numbers, pressing them multiple times in a row. Continue typing your to-do list, but speed up until you can't type correctly anymore. Begin inserting numbers everywhere. Gradually phase out all the letters until you are only pressing numbers.

Section 6

1234567890-=

*qwertyuiop[]*

asdfghjkl;'

zxcvbnm,./

Repeat back and forth, cleanly (sounds awesome).

End
